

The Democrat.

Subscribers finding X marked on the margin of their paper will know that there has been a change, or is just about to expire and if they wish the paper continued will have to remit at once or their names will be dropped from the list.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of Tuesday reads Senator Thurman and George H. Pendleton out of the Democratic party. We doubt not if Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson were alive, the young men of the Enquirer would serve them the same way. Unhappy Enquirer.

A resolution endorsing Hayes's Southern policy was offered in the Republican State Convention of Iowa held at Des Moines on Wednesday. The resolution raised a storm of hisses and an uproar and was finally tabled by a three fourths vote. This is certainly a severe hit. It seems the office holders were on hand thick trying to save the Administration. John H. Gear was nominated for Governor.

Isn't there an irrepressible conflict between Mr. Tilden and Mr. Hendricks as to the course that ought to be pursued in 1880, or is it a political mirage that deceives the eye of the observer.—(Cin. Enquirer.)

There is no conflict between Tilden and Hendricks. They are Democrats, and believe in the Constitution of the United States.

The frightful fire at St. John, followed closely by that at Marblehead, Monday, show that modern civilization has not yet reached that point at which fire in large towns shall cease to be a terror, and they ought to have the effect of arousing municipal authorities everywhere to the necessity of increased precaution.

In these days of Civil Service Reform, issuing of orders for officials to mind their own business, and let party politics and convention packing alone, we would remind the amiable head occupying the White House that Madison Wells still holds the position of Surveyor of the Port of New Orleans. A re-forming out and in, is certainly advisable there, in a reconstructing administration.

Hon. Robert Dale Owen died at Lake George, New York, on Sunday. Mr. Owen was a firm believer in Spiritualism, and was the author of "Footfalls on the Boundaries of Another World." Mr. Owen was in Congress over thirty years ago, and President Pierce sent him to Naples as charge d'affaires. He was a man of integrity and quite scholarly, but in the opinion of the world quite visionary.

"The Grand Army of the Republic" was in session at Providence on Tuesday, under the lead of such "grand" jacks as Hartranft and Burnside. Pennsylvania's Governor, Hartranft, wishing to get his name before "England's Queen" sent the following:

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, care Her Majesty Queen Victoria, Buckingham Palace, London:
Your comrades in annual encampment assembled at Providence, send the heartiest greetings to their old comrade, and desire, through you to England's Queen, to thank England for your grand reception.

[Signed] JOHN F. HARTANFT, Commander-in-Chief.
Does any one suppose that George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson or old Simon Snyder would have thus addressed the Queen's Grandfather, old George III? Bah!

Anxious Republicans are hurrying to and fro, pale, nervous and distracted, wanting to know who'll furnish the "grease" and oil the machinery if Mr. Hayes's recent order is enforced? Echo doesn't answer.

J. A. Hudson, an ex-official of the United States Army, asserts in the July number of St. Nicholas, upon documentary evidence, that gunpowder and even cannon and firearms were known and in use 3,000 years ago.

It is said that the assets of the failed Bank of Missouri are sufficient to pay the depositors in full, and to leave the stock worth 60 cents on the dollar, and it is also said the bank will pay its depositors fifty per cent, within a week, but there has been no statement of the assets yet.

ON HAYES.

Southern Policy and Appointment of Postmaster General Key.

Just How They Came About and for What Purpose.

(Hon. Joe Pulitzer, of St. Louis, in N. Y. Times.)

Let it be remembered—and I now speak from personal knowledge—that in the last days of February the leaders of the Republican party in Washington, and especially the confidential friends and representatives of Mr. Hayes, were eagerly anxious to make that bargain, as it was clear the Southern members could lawfully prevent the completion of the count and it was Colonel Burke, the Chairman of the Democratic Committee of Louisiana, who in the very first hour after the decision of the Electoral Commission on Louisiana was known, and when the demoralization of the House seemed utterly hopeless, first suggested to me the possibility of such a bargain, and subsequently succeeded in completing it in working with Messrs. Sherman, Matthews, and Foster, as the most direct and trustworthy representative of Hayes.

So that when Republicans abuse the "surrender of President Hayes," they should remember that but for that bargain he would have had nothing to surrender, and they would have no such administration as his; and when Democrats praise they should remember that there is a great deal of difference whether stolen property is returned voluntarily and without reward, or only after the arrest of the thief or the capture of the property by the police. Packard and Chamberlain represented stolen property, and Hayes did not surrender them until after he had in advance pocketed the Presidency as a reward, and when there was absolutely no other course left. For even Mr. Morton has at last publicly acknowledged it to have been "inevitable," and the New York Tribune admitted the same thing in the following lines:

"There was no other course open to the President which offered a practical solution of existing difficulties than that which he has taken. Over and over again it has been shown that the thing done was not only wise and statesmanlike, but the only thing that could be done lawfully. Finding upon careful examination of the facts that there was no such condition of things in South Carolina and Louisiana as under the Constitution warranted Federal interference, the President simply ordered interference to cease. That is all there is of the new Southern policy."

"That is all." The appointment of Mr. Key was not de nominated in the bond or bargain. In this, at least, Mr. Hayes acted from his own free will, influenced only by his chief adviser, Stanley Matthews. It has never been published that originally Brown, the ex-Governor of Tennessee, and a Vice President of the Texas Pacific, was offered this place. Mr. Brown, however, declined, and recommended Mr. Key, whom, by the way, he had appointed Senator of the United States to fill a vacancy. Now, why was Mr. Key really taken into the Cabinet? On account of his administrative ability or special fitness? Hardly for Mr. Key had never held a position requiring the administrative capacity of a Village grocer. On account of his services to Mr. Hayes personally, or the political party he had elected him? Hardly; of Mr. Key had been a fighting rebel, an active Democrat, had stumped and voted against Hayes, and only a few weeks before his appointment to the Cabinet, in his carefully prepared last speech to the United States Senate, he emphatically declared Mr. Tilden to be the President-elect. On account of his general talents or ability? Hardly; for Mr. Key had no representative position outside of his own State, and very little even there. Why, then, was he appointed? Let Mr. Key answer the question himself. Here is a letter of his, nominally written to his brother, but intended for the whole South:

"To give the President the power to carry out his Southern policy it is important that he have a majority in both Houses favorable to his Administration. Whether he shall have this majority depends upon the Southern Democrats. If they oppose the Administration, elect a Northern Democrat, such as Randall or Sawyer, to the Speakership, and ally themselves with the disaffected Republicans to fight the Administration, he will be compelled to use his official patronage in such way as to give him strength in his own party; whereas, should Southern Democrats wisely extend him support, he will be able to deal his patronage to them liberally."

Can there be anything more plain? Mr. Key was appointed as a bribe, and to the end that he might himself bribe Southern Democrats over to the Republican party. The letter above is the open shameless avowal of the shameless design. No more degrading and dishonorable letter was ever written by any member of Grant's Cabinet. Yet this act of self-debasement is publicly ascribed to the whole Cabinet and Mr. Hayes himself. There is no question whatever that Mr. Key's letter represents the Southern policy of Mr. Hayes and his Administration. And this is called civil service reform! An Administration created by fraud and bargain, openly proclaiming its design to continue by bribery and corruption.

The open support of Mr. Hayes of great public improvement jobs in the South forms another part of the programme.

OVER THE DANUBE.

28,000 RUSSIANS ACROSS.

Bucharest, June 26.—The Turks have evacuated and the Russians occupied Hirsova. The Czar has left for Giurgiovo. Prince Gortchakoff arrived here, accompanied by a staff of Russian chancellors. Up to Monday 28,000 Russians had crossed the Danube at Ibrail.

Constantinople, June 26.—It is asserted that the English Consul at Rastchuk and the Consul for the United States attempted unavailingly to avoid the Russian fire by hoisting the American flag. The Russo Population of Rastchuk Leaving the City.

Rastchuk, June 26.—The entire population are flying to neighboring villages. The Governor General of the Province has declared that he holds authorities responsible for the lives of fugitives, who are mostly Christians. Twelve shells have fallen upon military hospitals, five upon the civil hospital and two upon the Orphan Asylum. Patients were seized with a panic and have left their beds. The Turks in return partly destroyed Giurgiovo. Seven hundred shells fell there yesterday and eight hundred today. One Russian battery has been dismantled. The Russians apparently meditate a serious attempt to capture the Island of Pyrgos.

THE WAR IN ASIA.

Continued Reports of Turkish Successes. Constantinople, June 26.—Advices from Erzeroum state that Mukhtar Pasha has won a great victory, and has taken 1,000 Russian prisoners. A fresh attack by the Russians on Batoum is expected. One thousand Russians capitulated at Bayazid.

A Delibaba special says both sides are being reinforced. There was a third day's fighting on the 23rd and the Russians again fell back.

A Russian Brigade Crossed to Bulgaria by a Bridge and Boats.

London, June 25.—A telegram from Ibrail announces that 6,000 Russians have crossed the Danube from Galatz. The bridge constructed by the Russians over the river at Ibrail is finished. The Turkish garrison at Matchin has withdrawn. The Daily News, too, has a dispatch from its correspondent at the Russian headquarters at Ibrail, dated yesterday, which says the Russians crossed the Danube at Galatz in boats. They have taken the heights behind Zila, near Matchin. The Turks are said to have abandoned Matchin. A sufficient number of Russians have crossed to establish themselves solidly. They are now entrenched. A Bucharest dispatch to the second edition of the Standard says the Turks are destroying the line of railway between Tchernavoda and Matchin. It is rumored that there are indications that the Turks will not defend the Dobruja. Various special dispatches point to the speedy removal of the Russian headquarters to Alexandria, in Roumania, probably on Sunday or Monday.

The body of Miss Harrington, missing for several months, was found last week in the river some distance below Lowell, Massachusetts. Mrs. Cook, daughter of Mrs. Avery, the abolitionist, has given to the City Marshal all the particulars concerning Miss Harrington, from the time she entered their house until her death.

Local News.

We understand that all the business houses in this city will be closed on the 4th of July.

We have 15 kinds of Fancy Crackers on hand and see the nice assortment at Numan & Son's.

A considerable amount of correspondence and local matter is unavoidably crowded out this week.

A Novelty.—Go to Numan & Son's and see their Dried Meat Slicer. People that want their meat nicely sliced at the same price as before ought to go to Numan's.

Alfred Criss was brought from Columbus on Wednesday to testify in the case of the State vs. Byron Smith. His many friends hope to welcome him home to stay before long.

A man by the name of Effinger had a narrow escape from drowning. He attempted to walk across Meyer's dam and fell off. He was rescued just in time by Mr. Klopfenstine.

The ladies of the different churches are requested to meet at the corner room of the Wikidall building on Friday evening to make arrangements, appoint committees, etc, for the band festival to be held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of July.

"SWEEP"—Before your own door is an old, but good piece of advice; and, under a late city ordinance, Mr. Louis O'Connell has been leaving printed notices with our citizens requiring each to keep his own sewer in good shape. Let all remember the admonition and attend to it.

Henry Bender, a resident of North Market street was wounded in the left leg during the war. For some time past he has suffered from the wound, ulcerating and breaking out in sores, and it was found necessary to amputate the limb. The operation was performed on Monday.

Paul A. Cunee, a young man employed in the draughting room at the bridge works and who lost his leg at Alliance a few years ago, was presented by his employers last week with an extension work leg costing $120. Paul appreciates the gift and goes skipping around now as lively as anybody.

For the best of accommodations and good treatment we recommend our readers to the Rochester House at Navarre, should they travel that way. Mr. Smith always endeavors to make his guests feel perfectly at home. Good livery and sample rooms attached. See advertisement in another column.

An Iowa paper gives some good instructions in etiquette to its readers. It says: Never go into a store where you are not wanted. If a man wants you to come to his place of business he will invite you through an advertisement in your home paper. It is wrong for you to intrude on his privacy, so don't do it.

SERVE.—On Monday evening last about six o'clock a whirling, tearing hurricane of wind and rain swept over the city. It took off part of the roof of the railway station, hurled it against another house and smashed in one side; the roof of a barn was carried some forty rods; telegraph poles blown down and several other buildings unroofed. For a time the air was filled with flying timbers, shingles etc., but no person was hurt.

A CARD.

The Ladies Cemetery Association take this method of returning to Mr. George Cook their thanks for the free use of the grounds so generously tendered. To Mr. and Mrs. Avery for the use of their rooms and furniture; to Mrs. F. Reynolds for the liberal use of the gas, and for other valuable favors and assistance; to Messrs. Wikidall and Cleveland for their efforts in aid of the concert; to the Free Press Gas Co. and Messrs. Belden and Ballard for free use of their lamps and oil; to Grand Army Band and to the various committees to whom was given the management of the festival, and to the public generally whose contributions assisted so largely in carrying out the objects of the association.

NEW DOOR PLATES.

Capt. E. F. Moore, of Wheeling, W. Va., is now canvassing our city for the celebrated Glass Door plates, manufactured by Handman, Young & Co. of that city. These door plates are made of flexible glass and are finished up in most exquisite design and style, making them the handsomest door plates in existence. The process by which they are made prevents all the dirt and lettering from tarnishing in the slightest degree. These plates have only been manufactured about nine months and are already introduced into all the principal cities of the Union. Captain Moore comes to us well recommended as an honorable man and a gentleman and has been connected with this company as solicitor for a long time and has met with unbounded success. He will remain in our city for a few days and our citizens should not fail to embrace this opportunity to obtain a really elegant first class door plate for little money.

TRIPLETS AND TWINS.—We have mentioned "Thomas Morgan" as occurring three times in the poll lists of La Verne township at the Democratic primary election on June 2nd. "Lewis Baker" occurs twice in the Fulton list; "John Dougherty" twice in the Lawrence list; "John Miller" twice in the Ross Smith list.

Carrollton is to have a grand jubilee on the 4th. A basket picnic, music, foot and sack racing, climbing the greased pole, speeches and a general variety of amusements. As near as we can learn Canton will have —

Ferdinand Brownell of this city, better known as "Banty," who was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years a short time ago, died at that institution last week.

DIED.

His remains were laid in the burial grounds at Zion church. Mr. Casler was always the good citizen and honest man.

MOUSHEY.—On Monday the 25th inst., after a severe illness, Emma Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moushey, aged 3 years and 7 months.

OWEN.—On June 22nd, of inflammation of the bowels, Sadio Oweney, aged 14 years 6 months 25 days.

The sudden decease of this youthful friend has left a sad vacancy not only in the parental home she loved so fondly, but in the hearts of a large circle of dear associates, and in the school where her presence had been a necessity and a charm. Though only in her fifteenth year, yet so fond had she become of reading, and so diligent in her studies that her mind had quite reached the maturity of womanhood. Often in the home when her dear parents were tempted to look upon "the shady side," have her words of cheer and encouragement filled their hearts with new courage and given to life a new look and to the future a real hopefulness. Her judgment was indeed that of a person many years her senior, and her motto uttered with reserve, "to every cloud there is a silver lining," showed the worth and strength of her character. For one so young she likewise excelled as a conversationalist. Among her associates in this regard, she was a leader by reading and study as well as by nature, being qualified to influence and interest those into whose society she was thrown. As evidence of her popularity among her young friends, mention may be made of the fact that at the time of her decease, and for some months previous, she was the sole conductor and editor of a paper called the "Avalanche," issued by her department in school. A perusal of this paper proves the natural cast of mind of the deceased and her ability both in furnishing original matter and in making selections. That she was religiously inclined was shown by her enjoyment in church services and in Sabbath School instruction, and in her habit of teaching her little brothers how to pray to the dear Savior. She was not by public profession a member of either of our churches. But her loneliness of spirit, her respect for and interest in religion, encouraged the belief "of such is the kingdom of heaven." But a short time before her death a young friend solicited from her a few words for an Album and the following striking and we might say prophetic selection was made:

"All ye good people that now stand by, As you are now, so once was I, As I am now, so you shall be. Remember death, and pray for me."

Her decease impresses these words upon all her school-mates, who by their attendance at her funeral, and by the deep feeling they manifested as they looked upon her countenance for the last time gave evidence of the love they had cherished and the loss they had sustained. May God sanctify her death and lead all her associates into the fold of Christ. And may God in his abounding grace bind up the wound in the hearts of the stricken parents and of the children who are left. One is absent from the home. One place is vacant at the table. One voice is hushed. The quick familiar steps of one dearly loved will no more be heard. But in the midst of the desolation and anguish of spirit come to the bereaved the precious words of Holy Writ—the very words of the loving Christ, "Come unto me all ye who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." Let not your hearts be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me."
